The Jade Stone treatments for the face, head and neck may include the use of topical Chinese herbal products. As with any product there is always the possibility of an allergic response and I am aware of this. Each product to be used will be discussed with me prior to application and I can accept or reject the product. In addition I understand that a lubricant must be used on areas that the jade stone will be used in order to prevent bruising and that the jade stone cannot be used without lubrication.

I have answered these questions truthfully and to the best of my knowledge,
